King Charles keep's Infinite Care's mailbox full with several centenarian celebrations

Buckingham Palace should know this address by heart, as four residents of Infinite Aged Care's Hahndorf facility have celebrated extraordinary milestones, each marking a centenarian birthday—and one resident credits a special daily ritual for her longevity.

Festivities kicked off with Calvin Killingsworth turning 100 on 26 March, Ben Edwards marking his 100th on 1 September, Jean Raven turning 108 on 15 September and later in the month, Jean Byrnes joined the centenarian club on 4 October.

Infinite Care Hahndorf resident Jean Raven says an evening tipple is her secret to a long life. "It's surreal to think about how much has changed since I was born, but I've tried to keep things simple," says Ms Raven. "I've been having a small glass of brandy each day for as long as I can remember and since I'm 108, I think that's saying something."

Infinite resident Ben Edwards says he feels like a new man and his 100th birthday has given him a new lease on life and love. "Turning 100 has been a special experience; I might have a few more wrinkles, but I still feel young at heart and hopeful that I'll find my second wife soon," says Mr Edwards. "We've had quite a lot of big birthdays around here lately and getting a letter from the King was wonderful—I guess the Palace is going to need to remember our address if we keep this up."

Infinite Care CEO Luke Greive says the number of centenarian celebrations is a testament to the organisation's focus on health, happiness and connection. "It's incredible to have three residents turn 100 and another celebrate 108, all within the same community," says Mr Greive. "This demonstrates the kind of lives our residents enjoy and the level of support and care we provide across Infinite's facilities."

Infinite Care's new centenarians include:

- Calvin Killingsworth turned 100 on 26 March
- Ben Edwards turned 100 on 1 September
- Jean Raven turned 108 on 15 September
- Jean Burns turned 100 on 4 October
